DETAILED ACTION

Receipt is acknowledged of a request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) and a submission, filed on July 7th, 2006.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 28-32, 35, 36, and 38-45 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Lewis et al. (US 2,540,095).

Regarding claims 28, 38, 44, 45: Lewis et al. discloses an apparatus that includes the following features and the method for using the apparatus:

- A weld coupling 37, 40 adapted to be welded to an outer housing 15 of a first cable segment 12 to couple the first cable to a second cable segment 12.
- A thermal insulator 31 adapted to prevent thermal damage to a communication line of the first cable when the weld coupling is welded to the outer housing. (4:26-37, 5:30-43)

Regarding claims 29, 31, 39, 40: The thermal insulator contacts the outer housing and the communication line (Figure 7).

Regarding claims 30, 31, 42, 43: The apparatus further includes an insulating material 16 separate from the thermal insulator that is located between and contacts the outer housing and communication line. The thermal insulator displaces the insulating material when the weld coupling is attached. (5:30-43)

Regarding claim 32: The insulating material is an elastomer which is a polymeric material.

Regarding claim 35: The thermal insulator is located closer to the weld coupling than the insulating material.

Art Unit: 3672

Regarding claim 36: The weld coupling is a sleeve centered where the cables contact each other.

Regarding claim 41: The outer housing is welded to the weld coupling.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 37 and 46 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lewis et al.

Lewis et al. discloses all of the limitations of the above claims except for a second thermal insulator separate from the first thermal insulator for protecting the second cable segment. However, it would have been considered obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to have connected the second cable segment would be connected to a third cable segment at another location using the splice taught by Lewis et al. in order to have used a relatively simple splice to connect pieces of cable along the entire length of the cable. A second splice would include a second thermal insulator, separate from the first, for protecting the second cable segment.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 33, 34, 47, and 48 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

6. In view of the Terminal Disclaimers filed July 7th, 2006 have been approved and the Double Patenting rejection of the claims withdrawn.

Art Unit: 3672

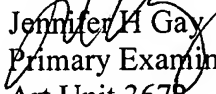

7. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 28-46 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
